

One woman's story of overcoming overwhelming odds to rise from abject poverty to American prominence. A woman of two worlds. In this moving memoir of love and driven determination against all odds, Jacqueline Regis, an accomplished lawyer and judge, tells the story of her climb up from poverty in Haiti to prominence in America in vivid and stirring detail. She shares with us the hope and inspiration to keep reaching higher for our goals, and never giving in to anything less. She is driven by compassion and generosity to reach out to the people in the land of her birth, helping them to see that they, too, can break the bonds of poverty and near certain tragedy and achieve their dreams of a better life. Throughout this amazing story of her journey, Jacqueline credits her successes to the strong bond of love that she shared with her mother, who, in spite of encroaching blindness, she calls her Guiding Lantern. It was the strength and love of her mother that inspired her, taught her, and gave her strength to stand firm in her convictions during uncertain times. It is a rare glimpse into the deep spiritual connection shared by mothers and daughters. ...this sweet little innocent child is going to find the strength to climb out of where she came from and become a major contributor to helping to turn around the lives of more people than we can count.
